Thanks for your help... 08:35 pm Drakea Cannot post the link as dont have 10k smf 12:26 pm fatalmodus666 Is it possible to play multiplayer on ps3 and xbox? If yes, how? 12:56 am Aldred I need to list out how long the patches have been in there, and how many people have still not installed it. 2:43 am Aldred It's been out for a while already, and it's about 100 or 200 people that have a PC now. 3:03 am Aldred BTW, we usually crash on the debut of the game. I'm going to see if it happens to me or not, so I can report it to the devs. 3:18 am Aldred I can report it, and make sure they're aware of it. I'll do it later. 3:21 am Aldred Please crash when you start the game, and report. We don't want to get our reports lost because of a server crash. 3:51 am Aldred No one else seem to have this problem. So the crash is not too big of a problem as far as I can see. 4:13 am Aldred These are the problems I was able to stumble upon. My problem is usually when I play. 6:41 am Aldred Just installed SFx

Force Inhibition During New-to-Training Exercise: A Case Study With Elite Junior American Football Players. The purpose of this study was to determine if an elevated acute blood lactate concentration after a prolonged exercise bout would prevent the ability to perform maximal strength contractions, and if so, if such a condition could be modified through neuromuscular electrical stimulation (NMES) training. The analysis was carried out on the basis that the acute blood lactate concentration and capacity for force production are compromised during a new-to-training condition. Eight elite junior American football players completed 2 NMES-trained sessions ( $2.5 \times 50$  Hz, 0.4 mA) separated by 7 d. One session was performed during recovery from a 20-km time trial, and the other session was performed during recovery from a 6-km time trial. During the 2.5-km time trial, subjects ingested the lactate booster dose along with 1.2 g of carbohydrate to modulate the blood lactate concentration. In addition, the subjects were required to exert maximal force in the concentric phase of a bench press exercise at 150% 1 repetition maximum for the highest possible time within 30 s. The results indicated that NMES training resulted in a 40% greater muscle twitch force ( $189 \pm 13$  N vs  $137 \pm 11$  N,  $P = 0.05$ ) and a 50% greater power output ( $13.5 \pm 2.9$  W/kg vs  $8.5$  f678ea9f9e
